PROJECT MANAGER
FOR RENEWABLE ENERGY PROJECTS

Are you eager to work with renewable energy projects in Central Europe and be part of the development of the business area in Danish listed company FirstFarms? Then we have a position for you.

FirstFarms acquires and operates businesses in the area of agriculture and food products in the EU countries Slovakia, Czech Republic, Hungary and Romania. We are 300+ employees. Head office is in Denmark.

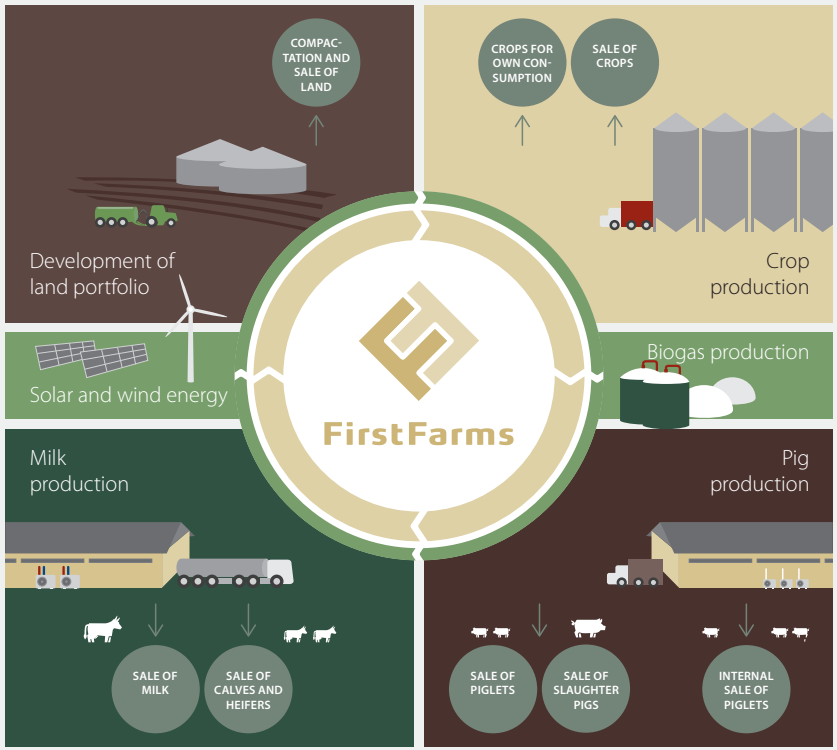
FirstFarms develops the individual farms to more modern businesses that deliver the highest quality, primarily to the local food processing companies. FirstFarms supports the development towards more sustainable agriculture, and we work every day on creating a more sustainable company.

Investments in renewable energy are a part of our sustainability and circular strategy, as well as it creates new business opportunities for the company. The energy business is therefore in huge upscaling for FirstFarms and we are looking for an experienced project manager, who will be responsible for the development and execution of technical projects across the FirstFarms Group.

The range of the projects, that you will work on, will vary from small-scale projects for own consumption to bigger utility-scale projects. In close collaboration with external partners, you will develop a project design that follows the company's goals and complies with authorities' requirements. The position also includes close collaboration with the internal organisation of FirstFarms' subsidiaries.

This job will give you the opportunity to be a part of a professional team with passionate colleagues. The company culture and ambitions provide the best conditions to apply your skills.

FIRSTFARMS BUSINESS MODEL 2022



VISION

Our ambition is to become one of Europe's best agricultures in terms of earnings, efficiency and sustainable production within a few years.

PURPOSE

MISSION

With our sustainable production, we are supplying high quality products to the local food processing companies.

We are creating value with our dedicated employees, knowledge and utilisation of synergies across our business areas.

Tasks you will be responsible for

- Effective and professional project development and execution on all renewable energy projects (photophilic panels, biogas, windmills etc.) across the FirstFarms-group (location of subsidiaries: Romania, Hungary, Slovakia and Czech Republic).
- Preparation of decision proposals for the management and board of directors.
- Dialogue and negotiation with potential business partners and authorities.
- Coordination and scheduling of all project design activities that will be mainly outsourced.
- Development of project documentation in collaboration with external partners.

Your profile

- 3+ years of relevant experience, where you have been working with framework conditions and technical solutions.
- Probably, technical or engineering degree.
- Flexible and collaborative stakeholder management skills.
- Work independently and are self-motivated.
- Proactive, curious about new technologies and solutions, and not afraid to take initiative.
- Very good oral and written communication skills in English.
- Enjoy and are flexible for 50-70 travel days per year.

We offer

You will be a part of an international and engaged team, where everyone is ready to help you. We offer you an opportunity to develop personally and professionally and work with rapidly developing technologies and the energy sector. Last but not least you will get a role with high responsibility and will have an influence on the position and tasks. You will be part of the establishment of a new business unit.

Salary

Salary and benefits are negotiable depending on professional qualifications and experience.
